Acknowledgement of Disclosure and Assumption of Risk Agreement

This Acknowledgement of Disclosure and Assumption of Risk Agreement has been prepared to provide you with information regarding the risks and side effects of using medical marijuana. It is important that you read this information carefully and completely. Please discuss any questions you may have with the dispensary pharmacist or your certifying physician. Once you have read and understand the attached information, and have had any questions addressed to your satisfaction, please sign and date the Acknowledgement of Disclosure and Assumption Risk Agreement.

Do not sign this Agreement and do not use medical marijuana if you have questions about or do not understand the information you have received or are not willing to assume all the risks that may be associated with medical marijuana use or possession.

Risks and Side Effects of Medical Marijuana Use

Possession or use of this product is unlawful outside of the State of Connecticut and prohibited by federal law.

Medical marijuana may have intoxicating effects and has not been analyzed or approved by the United States Food and Drug Administration ("FDA") and was produced without FDA oversight for health, safety, or efficacy. Medical marijuana may contain unknown quantities of active ingredients, impurities, or contaminants.

The efficacy and potency of medical marijuana may vary widely depending on the medical marijuana strain and ingestion method.

If medical marijuana is smoked or vaporized: Smoking may be hazardous to your health. Medical marijuana smoke contains carcinogens and may lead to an increased risk of cancer, tachycardia, hypertension, heart attack, birth defects, brain damage, and lung disease.

If medical marijuana is eaten or swallowed: When products infused with medical marijuana or active compounds of medical marijuana are eaten or swallowed, the intoxicating effects of this drug may be delayed by two or three hours or more.

There is limited information on the side effects of using medical marijuana, and there may be associated health risks. Side effects of medical marijuana can include, but are not limited to:

- Memory loss
- Anxiety/Nervousness

- Irregular/Increased heartbeat
- Sexual impotence

Symptoms of medical marijuana overdose include, but are not limited to, nausea, vomiting, and disturbances to heart rhythm.

The scientific basis for the medical use of medical marijuana has not been established. There is little known information regarding how medical marijuana may or may not react with other pharmaceutical or herbal medications.

Some patients can become dependent on medical marijuana. This means they experience withdrawal symptoms when they stop using medical marijuana. Signs of withdrawal symptoms can include feelings of depression, sadness or irritability, restlessness or mild agitation, insomnia, sleep disturbance, unusual tiredness, trouble concentrating, and loss of appetite.

Some users can develop a tolerance to medical marijuana. This means higher and higher doses are required to achieve the same symptom relief.

The possibility exists that medical marijuana may exacerbate schizophrenia or bipolar disorder in persons predisposed to those disorders.

Woman should not consume medical marijuana products while planning to become pregnant, during pregnancy, or while breast feeding, except on the advice of the certifying health practitioner, and in the case of breast feeding mothers, on the advice of the infant's pediatrician. Keep out of the reach of children and pets.
